Corporate Identity Protection, or CIP, can effectively help policyholders manage and respond to personal identity events where computer systems have been breached and patient data is at risk.

Program Highlights

Professional liability coverage is written on a claims-made or occurrence basis for most classes. In addition, programs may include:

- General liability and excess/umbrella liability coverages
- Extensions for HIPAA defense, premises liability, administrative hearings defense, billing E&O claims expenses, and CIP coverage
- Access to admitted and non-admitted coverages through an AIG member company
- Additional products are available to help your clients’ ensure their non-healthcare exposures are covered, such as property and automobile

Risk Management Services

AIG provides advanced risk management services, such as our interactive web-based tools, informational seminars, and consultative on-site visits.

A Strong Service Network

Our dedication to excellence is demonstrated by a strong service network with specialized underwriting, risk consulting, and claims teams ready to respond to policyholder needs when they arise. Claims management is overseen by a dedicated team of experienced healthcare claims examiners.
